

GERMANS RUSHING RESERVES INTO ODESSA

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

THEY TELL US D-day actually has been set for the invasion of western Europe, although the date remains the most carefully guarded secret of the war.

When it arrives, we shall see a titanic clash not only of men, but of material. Of course we can't appraise the relative value of the soldiers and the equipment, for both are vital. However, once the Allies get their armies solidly ashore in France, the weight of the conflict may be shifted to supplies.

Material will tip the scales.

If the Allies had possessed the trained men and material they could have invaded France months ago. That's why American and British industries have been racing to provide equipment for this great show, and why vast convoys have been speeding across the Atlantic with troops and supplies to England. Arrival of D-day will mean we finally have the material we need.

Two items of material without which modern war cannot be waged are oil and gasoline. War industries would halt without oil, and so would all battle equipment which has moving parts. Warplanes, tanks and motor vehicles would be stalled without gasoline.

This being so, one of the outstanding factors in our favor as we near D-day is that Hitler not only is short of oil and gasoline but that his slender source of supplies is under dangerous attack by the Allies. His synthetic oil and gas plants long have been under systematic bombing, and now American bombers are slashing at Rumania's Ploesti oil fields, from which he has got the bulk of his natural petroleum supplies. And the Red armies are racing towards Ploesti, less than 200 miles away.

All this presents a grim threat to the Fuehrer. To illustrate, six months ago it was estimated that on an average day of all-out offensive operations the Axis would consume about 336,000 barrels of petroleum. It also was estimated that last year Rumania produced 35,000,000 barrels of oil, much of which went to Germany. In other words, Rumania's entire output would last the Allies maybe 100 days if it were high grade oil—which it isn't.

HALF A YEAR AGO Allied aerial operations over Europe on an active day consumed 2,750,000 gallons of gas. Heaven and the Allied high command alone now know what the vastly increased consumption of Rumania has supplied about one third of Germany's requirements for oil. Virtually all the Reich's requirements for oil.

LARGE ARMED FORCE NEEDED, HERSHEY SAYS

Predicts Continued Monthly Inductions, Post-war Standing Army

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 7.—Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey declares that only with the backing of military strength will the voice of the United States be heard at the peace table.

Coincident with the announcement that the Army today is at its planned maximum strength of 7,700,000, Gen. Hershey indicated that huge monthly quotas of men will be poured into the draft mill almost indefinitely and that demobilization must be slow.

He said 150,000 men a month—"a very conservative estimate"—would be required merely to maintain the Army and Navy at full strength in war time and he hinted that many inductions might be required even after the war is won.

If his estimates are right, Hershey said in a speech approved by the State department, we must be prepared to produce at least 150,000 men a month "until such time as the international picture indicates this nation can support its vital national interests with a smaller number."

Standing Army Needed
"To maintain the results for which we have fought," he said, "depends to a very large degree upon the evidences we possess that we are prepared to back with force our recommendations."

"Our voice in the establishment of peace will be heard only if it is backed by military strength."

"Then we have a principle to recognize in demobilization—the principle that our reduction in forces will be made as it can be without losing a peace after winning a war."

"Adherence to this principle will mean that we evolve a permanent system for our armed forces that will provide, at all times, adequate military strength sufficient to ensure the maintenance of our national interests."

Army and Navy announcement, issued last night through the Office of War Information, indicated

Stettinius Arrives For London Talks

LONDON, April 7.—Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., U. S. undersecretary of state, arrived today for a series of important foreign policy conferences with British officials—meetings which may prepare the for another Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin roundtable.

Stettinius' arrival came at a time of mounting criticism and uncertainty in common and congress over British-American foreign policy and the degree of cooperation between London and Washington and with Moscow.

His talks with Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and foreign office experts are expected to cover a wide range, including the prospects of Finnish peace, negotiations with Spain and Allied efforts to wrest the Balkan satellites from Hitler's grasp.

KIWANIS CLUB WINS ATTENDANCE FLAG

A discussion of plans for the Kiwanis club to aid in the local Victory Garden program this year was held following a talk by H. C. Hurlburt at a meeting of the club Tuesday noon in the Memorial building.

Announcement was made that the Salem club, for the second time this year, has won the division banner for the highest monthly attendance.

Dr. George Jones, past president of the club, has received the Victory membership trophy won by only two clubs in the division who were able to set a membership goal for the year and to maintain it by quarters and for the entire period. Salem and Steubenville were the only two to win the award.

Apprentice Seaman Alroy Bloomberg, stationed at Great Lakes, Ill., was a guest.

April will be observed as 100 per cent attendance month by Kiwanis clubs. An appropriate program for next Thursday's meeting, arranged by G. W. McKee, is planned.

Cleveland Is First In Traffic Safety Contest For 1943

Salem Wins Honorable Mention For Having No Traffic Fatalities

Cleveland and Cincinnati led the state as well as the nation in the 1943 traffic safety contest, the Ohio Traffic Safety council announces.

In cities over 250,000 population, Cleveland was first and Cincinnati second. The northern Ohio city tied Chicago for top national honors in the over-500,000 population class. The Ohio river metropolis won the national 250,000-500,000 class award.

Salem, with no traffic fatalities during the year, was awarded honorable mention in the state poll.

Canton, Lakewood, Marion, Fremont, Jackson and Greenfield won their respective class crowns in the state. Plaques will be presented to each of the winning cities on April 20 at the annual award dinner in Columbus.

Entrants are judged on a point system, which credits low traffic fatalities, traffic engineering, accident reporting and record keeping, traffic law enforcement, child safety, public safety education and conservation of war transportation. The Ohio department of highways and the Ohio State Safety council jointly sponsor the contest with the Ohio Traffic Safety council.

JAPS EXTEND BURMA DRIVE

Infiltrate Area Near American-Operated Bengal Railroad

NEW DELHI, April 7.—Japanese troops, with established road blocks along 15 miles of the Imphal-Kohima road, have driven deeper into India and are now infiltrating into territory slightly west of the highway in the direction of the American-operated Bengal-Assam railroad, it was disclosed in a communiqué of the Southeast Asia command today.

The Japanese positions apparently placed them 35 to 50 miles from the railway, lifeline of Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's northern Burma offensive and the air-borne supply operations for China.

The Japanese were being engaged by Allied troops as they pushed westward, the communiqué said.

American heavy bombers staged a full-dress attack on the new Japanese-built Burma-Siam railway Wednesday, the communiqué reported. Coming in at levels of 300 to 600 feet, the planes destroyed three bridges and probably destroyed five others, while other Allied air formations carried out similar missions in southern, central and northern Burma and flew more than 800 sorties against the enemy since Tuesday at a cost of two Allied planes.

Allied tank-supported troops on the Arakan front continuing their offensive action capture the eastern tunnel on the Maungdaw-Buthe-daung road yesterday, headquarters said, and proceeded to make progress toward the central ridge of the Mayu mountain range.

Only 16 Arrests Made During Month of March

Eleven of the 16 arrests made last month by police were for intoxication, the March report of Police Chief Ralph Stoffer showed today. Seven of the 11 were discharged by the mayor.

Other arrests were: Reckless driving 1; cutting with intent to kill, 1; arrested for military authorities, 1; arrested for out-of-town police, 1; incest, 1.

Shop Workers Enrolled For Blood Donations April 17-18

Registration is being held in local manufacturing plants for Red Cross blood donors who will be called April 17 and 18 on the 11th visit of the Cleveland mobile unit here, donor officials announced today.

Other donors who are urged to call early for appointments since no over-registration can be made this time, may call from 1 to 9 p. m. Tuesday through Saturday, phone 4300.

Donations will be taken from 2 to 6 p. m. Monday, April 17, and from 10 to 2 p. m. Tuesday, April 18, at the Presbyterian church.

Registered is expected to be completed by Wednesday at the plants where workers may sign for donations without calling.

21 'T. B.' Suspects Pass X-Ray Tests

Columbiana County Public Health league officials announced today that 21 Salem students of the Junior and Senior High schools, whose reaction to recent tuberculosis patch tests was positive, have been X-rayed and found in satisfactory condition.

More than 250 students of the two schools here were given the test in March and only the 21 who were X-rayed gave positive reactions. The tests were given here by the health league in cooperation with the board of education and the board of health.

Similar test programs were offered in all the schools of the county and will be completed in succeeding weeks.

A chest clinic was conducted yesterday at Lisbon by Dr. E. E. Kirkwood of Youngstown, head of the Mahoning county sanatorium, sponsored by the league. Twenty-six persons were examined, including three Army rejects. One of the latter was diagnosed as a minimal pulmonary tuberculosis in need of immediate sanatorium care. Four others were advised to have a recheck in three months.

WILLKIE ACT HELPS DEWEY

Darkhorse Possibilities Are Ruled Out; Convention Deadlock Unlikely

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 7.—The difficult road that lies ahead for any darkhorse hopefuls was impressed on Republicans today as a result of Wendell L. Willkie's retirement from the race for the party's presidential nomination.

With Willkie out of the running, a swing appeared underway for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. Definite indications developed that Dewey would collect a major share of the support which Willkie renounced after his defeat in Tuesday's Wisconsin primary.

Among these was the prediction of Sen. Danaher (R-Conn.) that most of Connecticut's 16 uncommitted delegates, to be selected next week, would favor Dewey.

Willkie's greatest pre-convention strength was in New England and it is there that other candidates would have to make inroads if they hoped to transfer his support to themselves.

There were some Republicans who had envisioned the possibility that Dewey and Willkie would present almost equal strength on the first ballot which might lead to one of those convention deadlocks from which darkhorses spring galloping.

This was the frankly expressed hope of Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), who has been saying that the Republicans ought to nominate Gen. Douglas MacArthur. The Southwest Pacific commander, Vandenberg contends, is the only man who successfully could oppose President Roosevelt.

F. D. R. Lauds Stabilization Program, Asks Continuance

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 7.—President Roosevelt made public today—with an indirect endorsement—a report from his top economic advisers which declared present wage and price control policies must be continued.

Coming at a time when organized labor is pressing for relaxation of wage controls, the report said the stabilization program has worked so well "the cost of living as a whole" actually is lower today than it was a year ago and that wages have been stabilized.

"We must not jeopardize these gains by any change of policy or relaxation of effort in the critical months ahead," it said.

The report, taking note of the fact that tomorrow marks the first anniversary of his "hold-the-line" order on the cost of living, was submitted by Fred M. Vinson, economic stabilization director; Chester Bowles, price administrator; Marvin Jones, War Food administrator, and William H. Davis, National War Labor board chairman.

Mr. Roosevelt described it as important because it showed how the government was trying to keep prices from going up through the roof and ultimately bankrupting everybody in the country.

"On this first anniversary of the issuance of the 'hold-the-line' order," was rising three-quarters per cent a month, as for a solid year been held without change of any consequence."

As a matter of fact, the report said, the cost of living as a whole

Get Orders To Defend Port At Any Cost

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW, April 7.—The Germans have rushed special units into line with orders to defend Odessa at "any cost" and are battling on the close approaches to that Black sea port from favorable positions behind the many lagoons and lakes protecting the stronghold, Red Star dispatches reported today.

While the Germans struck out in strong counter-attacks from the beleaguered base, Russian Stormovik planes and bombers pounded at the city's defenses and escape lines of communications.

Three hundred miles to the northwest the Russians engaged in stiff battles against large groups of enemy tanks, infantry and self-propelled guns sent to rescue another besieged German garrison at Tarnopol.

The attack was launched from German-held territory southwest of Tarnopol, the Russian bulletin said, and came after Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First Ukrainian army had captured more than half the area within the city.

Attempts to lift the siege yesterday were repulsed with heavy losses, the communiqué announced, but added that fierce fighting is continuing.

The Germans, it appeared, were attempting to rescue both the Tarnopol garrison and the remnants of 15 divisions encircled in the Skala sector northeast of Czernowitz and have thrown formidable forces into the drive to crack the Red army cordons.

Seize War Booty
Zhukov's troops, however, were reported to have tightened their ring of encirclement near Skala by capturing important defense strongpoints, including the fortified town of Skala itself.

The Russian communiqué announced the capture of huge stocks of war booty in the Skala fighting, including 29 transport planes apparently held in readiness to fly high military personnel from the encircled area.

Three hundred miles southwest of Tarnopol, Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Third Ukrainian army struck toward Odessa in a 15-mile drive from captured Razdelnaya, which brought it to a point 23 miles northwest of the Black sea port, posing a new threat to that Nazi-held bastion.

Inside the rapidly constricting area, harassed Germans and Rumanian troops of being herded closer to the shores of the Black sea and their last remaining escape corridor across the Dniester estuary, 20 miles southwest of Odessa.

From the north another Soviet column surged down the banks of the rain-swollen Kuyalnik river for 13 miles to capture Maryanovka, 21 miles from Odessa, while from the northeast a third force swept along the shores of the Black sea to storm the town of Sverdlova, 14 miles from the heart of the metropolis.

STATISTICAL WAGES

Though the idea is not new, a proposal in congress for tying wages to cost-of-living statistics is nothing short of startling at this particular juncture in the use of economic statistics.

There would need to be, first of all, a statistical formula for measuring the cost of living which would be acceptable to all parties concerned with its use. The bureau of labor statistics and the labor unions at this moment are approximately 100 percent apart on their differing indexes, with no prospect of splitting the difference.

Beyond an acceptable formula there would need to be something else even more difficult to attain. It is easy to imagine organized labor accepting wage increases adjusted to a rising cost of living, even though the increases might not seem to be large enough. But it is not easy to imagine organized labor accepting decreases adjusted to a falling cost of living. It is, under existing circumstances, impossible to imagine it. The professed intent of organized labor is to hold existing wage rates at high levels after the war; collective bargaining, not statistics, is the order of the day in wage adjustments.

CONGRESSIONAL REFORM

Plans prepared by the Republican steering committee under the chairmanship of Sen. Taft for reforming the senate's committee system, if Republicans gain control of the upper house next November, are based on recommendations of many years' standing. It is a good sign that congressmen, themselves, now are showing interest in the possibilities of improving legislative efficiency.

Aside from changes proposed to make committee membership more effective by reducing the number of standing committees and dividing responsibility more equitably, there might be one more important revision considered—a change in the seniority system which enables time servers to hold committee posts and chairmanships as a reward for nothing more meritorious than long service. This is particularly important whenever the Democrats organize congress, due to the prevailing seniority of the party's southern legislators, who enjoy the privilege of running for the senate without opposition.

BLOW 'ER UP

For wartime diversion from the problem of sustaining transportation on an A card, nothing recently has offered more possibilities than Dr. Gustav Egluff's talk to American Chemical society on the possibilities of methane.

Dr. Egluff, who is one of the world's great authorities on fuels for internal combustion engines and has the patents to prove it, must be taken seriously when he says methane, obtainable as a byproduct of coal processing and also from natural gas, oil and sewer gas, is a readily available substitute for gasoline, if and when the United States needs a substitute. He explains that it would be used for ordinary passenger cars by means of a small pressure tank, instead of the bulky contraptions commonly employed abroad, where gasoline substitutes are already familiar to auto users. In Sweden, for instance, gas is generated from charcoal to operate buses and trucks.

We have confidence in Dr. Egluff. If he says it can be done, he can be trusted to figure out the easiest way. But frankly, what fascinates us isn't the idea of a substitute, but the thought of gliding into a filling station and commanding a swarm of eager attendants to "blow 'er up." Next to repeating those once familiar words, "fill 'er up," that would be best.

WHERE CREDIT WILL BE DUE

The United States war ballot commission, organized under the authority of congress to administer the new service vote law, has announced it will do everything in its power to carry out its mandate. The commission is composed of Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of Navy Knox and Admiral Land, administrator of the war shipping administration.

To the extent that military balloting is successful in 1944, credit will be due, first, to the states which do a good job of distributing absentee ballots and, second, to the ballot commission, which will operate as an agency of contact between the states and absentee military voters. In view of the tension created by the federal government's indiscreet effort to take over state responsibility for election procedures, lock, stock and barrel, the commission is destined to sit on an exceedingly hot spot until the job has been done. It will be a ready-made scapegoat if for any reason whatever the military balloting seems affected by the now repudiated viewpoint of those federal officials who were over-eager to make it a wholly federal function. The commission is charged with the single duty of carrying out the congressional decision to place primary responsibility on the states.

HOORAY FOR WHAT?

Aqueduct of Charlie Chaplin, the comedian, of Marm act charges found the spectators in the federal court at Los Angeles Tuesday shouting "Hooray!" according to Associated Press. There also were enthusiastic congratulations from well wishers.

Without wishing to detract in any way from Mr. Chaplin's relief over not having to go to federal prison, objective observers of his lately disclosed adventures in this country may properly inquire, "Hooray for what?" Mr. Chaplin in court has been a most unfunny figure. He has been reaping the whirlwind of misbehavior which his attorney did not even try to defend during his trial, except say that he was not guilty of the technical charge.

There is no occasion for cheering. If Charlie Chaplin, himself, wouldn't be the first to say so, his famed sense of comedy has been grossly over-rated.

MORE OHIO CORN

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Government researchers have worked out a method of adding millions of bushels to Ohio's corn crop.

The state's farmers could grow at least 10,000,000 more bushels simply by growing more stalks per acre—a seemingly obvious suggestion but not accepted by everyone, agronomists reported to the Agriculture department.

Big ears don't always mean efficient production. Department tests indicated individual ears would weigh about half a pound, even on highly productive soil, if farmers grew the most efficient stand.

For example, various rates of planting of one variety on a fertile Ohio soil showed that three kernels to the hill produced ears averaging 0.61 pounds and a yield of 89 bushels to the acre. On the other hand, four kernels to the hill produced ears averaging 54 pounds and a yield of 101 bushels.

Even better, planting five kernels to the hill resulted in an average weight per ear of 48 pounds but the yield climbed to 107 bushels an acre.

The quality of the grain, the report added, was the same at all rates of planting except for a slightly greater moisture content in corn grown at the heavier planting rates.

I QUOTE today some letters from readers — of the uncomplicated variety.

1. "Never morning Were to Evening."

Dr. Clendingning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

ning but What Some Heart Did Break."

Sir: Did you ever stop to think that there might just happen to be something wrong with the people with headache and dyspepsia whom you classify as the trouble-some ones? I went to several doctors and they said there was nothing the matter with me. My husband read your piece in the paper and showed it to me and laughed.

Then I thought of tomatoes. I opened a can and began eating. They were just what I needed. Soon I felt better than I had in years. I need acid and none of the doctors found it out. Heaven help the poor troublesome ones.

2. "Page Solomon in All His Wisdom."

Dear Doc: My problem is this, but you are so cruel you do not help me. I must have extensive dental work done, but I am afraid of the dentist. Why don't you tell me what to do?

Washington Round-up

News and Views, Briefly On What's Going On In Capital

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The developing indications that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York will garner much of the strength held by Wendell Willkie before the Wisconsin primary was given emphasis today by the prediction of Sen. Donahoe (R-Conn.) that Connecticut's 16 uninstructed delegates, to be selected next week, will favor the New Yorker.

Willkie's greatest preconvention strength was in New England and it is there that other candidates will have to make inroads if they hope to transfer his support to themselves.

There also have been indications in Washington that the professional Republican minority in the South is primed to board the New York governor's bandwagon.

MILITARY PEACE
Draft Director Hershey says that only with the backing of military strength will the voice of the United States be heard at the peace table.

And, as the army announced its planned maximum strength of 7,700,000 has been reached, Hershey indicated how monthly quotas of men will be poured into the draft mill almost indefinitely—even after the war.

POOR FISH-DEALER
On Fridays, and other meatless days, are the bones that stick in your throat those of a scomberomorus maculatus? Or just a Spanish mackerel? It's all the same and a house merchant marine subcommittee wants to know why the OPA insists on using the Latin names in trying to tell fish dealers how to buy and sell and for how much.

How long will they allow you to keep on with your Questions and Answers if your answers are so trite. They are the truth, but how many people can take things without sugar-coating? Still, if you sugar-coat them perhaps I would not enjoy them so much.

Colors at anyone's suggestion. But his audience demanded so many colors that the effort to please them threw him into a chronic prostration and he died. Moral: You can't please all of the people some of the time.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendingning has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendingning, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Cooked a Fine Dinner; Then Threw It To Dog
One lady recently stated that she used to throw her own dinner to the dog most of the time. It made her sick just to look at anything to eat. She was swollen with gas, full of blood, had headaches, felt worn out and was badly constipated. Finally she got ERB-HELP and says now she eats everything in sight and digests it perfectly. Bowels are regular and normal. She is enjoying life once more and feels like "some other woman" since taking this New Compound.

ERB-HELP contains 12 Great Herbs; they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get ERB-HELP. Lease Drug Stores, State and Lincoln Ave.

Fifty Million Tax Headaches; Bureau Job Just Beginning

BY NED NORDNESS
WASHINGTON — Timothy Taxpayer had one headache—the Bureau of Internal Revenue has 50,000,000. T. T. may have thought the chore was finished when he mailed the last of his earnings to the bottomless money bag. The Bureau laughs hollowly and rolls up its collective sleeves. The job is just begun. It will take the Internal Revenue office the better part of a year, and in some cases three years to wade through the 50,000,000 returns. The Bureau's job this year is more complicated than ever because some 10,000,000 taxpayers are expected to claim refunds.

Refunds To New York
As Timothy Taxpayer relaxes for a stimulant of double strength, he follows his return through the Bureau of Internal Revenue. He claims a refund so his return is sent to the Bureau's processing division in New York, an office opened this year to handle refunds and to assemble wage and tax information on all taxpayers.

If Mr. Taxpayer had been a non-refund claimant of large income his return would have been sent to Washington or had Timothy, a man of average income, claimed a refund, it would have remained in the regional collector's office in his home district.

In New York are gathered government copies of: (1) wage slips, listing salary paid and taxes withheld by employers in 1943; (2) the 1942 taxes-paid slips sent by the Internal Revenue office to all taxpayers; (3) all Sept. 15 declarations of 1943 income.

These are filed under social security numbers to eliminate errors arising from similar names, and are then distributed to regional offices or the Washington bureau where a refund is involved.

The slips are tallied against the taxpayer's statement in his return of taxes paid. If they jibe, well and good. If not, the matter must be straightened out.

Machine Calculators

In Timothy's case the figures are accurate, so his return is examined for arithmetic with a calculating machine. It passes the examination in fine fashion and is turned over to an auditor, who checks deductions and contributions.

Timothy Taxpayer is an honest man; he has deducted no more than he was supposed to. So his blank is filed away, the regional collector is notified and in due time T. T. gets his refund. Had he been in error arithmetically, the return would have been returned to the regional collector who in turn would go over the error with him.

These returns not claiming refunds also are examined arithmetically, and the great majority of all returns are investigated for honest in claimed exemptions and deductions.

This auditing of returns for accuracy in deductions and exemptions is the last general step. Often, discrepancies are found in favor of the taxpayer, who is pleasantly surprised to receive a check for the amount he overpaid. This works two ways, however. Other taxpayers have to dig deeper.

Ten Per Cent Gags

Life is not entirely devoid of laughs and humor for the government headache gang. One average wage earner listed $500 as contributions to his church. The Internal Revenue employee who examined the return was a member of the same church. He called the taxpayer and told him:

"I attend that church and contribute $1 a week. I happen to know there is no need to contribute more so, that is all you get credit for."

In another case a middle group taxpayer marked down a movie tax of $260. The tax being 10 per cent of the whole, the Bureau came to the conclusion the taxpayer would have had to attend nearly two movies a day for the year.

The auditor knocked off the credit, swallowed another aspirin and lighted into another return.

Color-Blind Marine Has Keen Eye for Camouflage

CAMP ELLIOTT, Calif.—Marine Pvt. Warren B. Garrett of Houston, Tex., may be color-blind but this defect has served him in good stead. His instructors at the Scouts and snipers school will testify. Camouflage which would fool another man is easily penetrated by Garrett's eyes. He can spot movement in thick brush and rough wooded terrain, even at great distances, with the aid of field glasses.

In addition to his ability to see the enemy, Garrett also has unusual accuracy with a rifle, being able to hit a target more than 1,000 yards away.

Nailed to the Cross THE CRUCIFIXION Descent From the Cross

WITH THE WORLD plunged into the sufferings of war, Christians everywhere pause on Good Friday to remember the sufferings of Jesus Christ who died on the cross to save mankind. Nailed to the cross, Christ suffered the most excruciating physical torture for three hours, refusing wine or opiates, until death released him from his agonies. At the height of his pain, he uttered those words of love, "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do." Finally, his faithful apostles tenderly carried him from the cross and laid him in the sepulchre from which he was to rise triumphantly from the dead on Easter morning. (International)

Easter Party Enjoyed By Girl Scout Troop

An Easter party was enjoyed last night at the home of Mrs. Charles Matvei, S. Union ave., by members of Girl Scout Troop 9 of the Christian church.

Thirteen girls attended the affair at the home of the leader. Games were followed by a buffet lunch. Prizes went to Billie Finley and Donna Lopenan in "Dig" and to Billie Finley, Dawn Helmick and Mary Lou Cowan in bingo.

The table where lunch was served was attractively decorated with a nest of colored Easter eggs, lighted tapers in holders of tinfoil design, symbol of the Girl Scout three-fold "promise."

Nancy Stamp and Barbara Kerr were hostesses.

The troop members have planned to do horseback riding as an outside activity this summer. All girls of the troop interested are asked to notify Mary Lou Cowan, chairman.

Announce Engagement Of Damascus Couple

The engagement of Miss Vera Cobbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Iven Cobbs, and Wendell Santee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Santee, both of Damascus was announced Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Cobbs entertained at a 7 o'clock dinner Tuesday evening, honoring their daughter Vera's birthday. Girl friends of Damascus were invited guests.

Table decorations were cut flowers and a decorated cake with green and yellow as the color scheme. Small baskets of candy were favors in which were hidden cards revealing the engagement of the couple.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Mrs. Malmsberry Hostess To Thursday Club

Mrs. Dale Malmsberry, entertained the Thursday club yesterday at her home, northwest of Salem. Mrs. Fred Weingart of Patmos and Mrs. Melvin Burt of Ravenna were guests.

Following a short business session the afternoon was spent informally. Announcement was made of the resignation of Mrs. Willard Thomas, who has moved from the Patmos rd. to Warren to make her home.

Marriage Bureau Stumps Red Skelton

LOS ANGELES, April 7.—Comedian Richard (Red) Skelton has a quip for almost every occasion, but when he walked into the marriage license bureau with Muriel Chase, blonde film actress, the gag was on him.

He didn't have the required health certificates.

But Skelton and Miss Chase, daughter of the late Charles E. Biederharn, Evansville, Ind., casket manufacturer, filled out their applications yesterday, each giving the age as 30. They were told to return with the certificates before the license would be issued.

"Why, I'm in A-1 condition, or at least I-A," was the immediate Skelton reaction. He explained that he recently passed his army physical examination, and expects to be inducted soon.

The comedian told newsmen he and Miss Chase would obtain the health certificates, required by California law, today and would be married in a day or two.

Revive Plans For Ohio Canal Project

WASHINGTON, April 7.—A new plan to authorize post-war construction of a $38,000,000 canal from the Ohio river to Struthers in the Ohio steel mill district is being considered by a senate commerce subcommittee.

The authorization would be added to an omnibus rivers and harbors bill passed recently by the house and awaiting action by the senate commerce committee. Sub-committee hearings are expected to begin late this month or early in May.

Sen. Burton (R-Ohio) told a reporter he was ready to support the plan to remove any doubts as to whether the Army engineers already have authority to construct the canal by improving the Beaver-Mahoning river.

A canal from the Ohio river to Lake Erie was authorized in 1935 but the engineers are uncertain as to the status of this authorization and whether it would permit construction as far as Struthers.

Sight Failing, Mother Wants to See Hero Son

PITTSBURGH, April 7.—"Commander" Kelly's mother, deaf and her sight fast failing, has appealed to President Roosevelt to allow her hero son to come home to visit her for a few days.

Tech. Sgt. Charles E. Kelly, recently awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor in Italy, is but one of seven sons the widowed Mrs. Irene Kelly has in service. Her other two sons, 16 and 11, are home.

Last night, by the flickering light of an oil lamp, she dictated a letter to President Roosevelt saying she was "going to offer up another prayer that you will make a lonely mother's heart light and happy by letting her see Charles soon."

This is no time to lose your memory!

IN NEARLY ALL Americans there's a streak of natural optimism.

We know the war won't be over tomorrow. We know there may be a long, hard fight ahead.

But we can't help looking forward to the beautiful and wonderful-seeming days of Peace.

This is all right unless...

Unless it makes you relax your efforts to win the war...

Unless it makes you lose your memory of what happened after the last war was won.

Don't lose that memory now. Don't forget the depression...the poverty that hit the farmers...the bread lines in the cities...the soldiers looking, looking, looking for jobs, and not finding them.

Remember that Peace brought difficult economic problems, economic stresses. And this time, we must be ready to meet them.

This time we must make sure of having a real financial cushion...to ease the transfer to normal peacetime business, peacetime employment, peacetime living.

That's one big reason why you should buy War Bonds

...and hold on to them...and there are others.

Every War Bond you buy, every one you hold to maturity, will keep bringing you $4 for every $3 you invest today.

And that steady flow of buying power will make jobs. It will create markets for peacetime goods. It will do a lot to insure an America that's prosperous and sound...the kind of America we all want when this war is won.

So let's not forget the lesson of World War I. Keep buying Bonds. Keep hanging on to them. They're your security...your Country's security...for the days of Peace!

Rationing Expected To Continue Awhile After War Is Ended

COLUMBUS, April 7.—Rationing of American foodstuffs will continue until the first European peacetime harvest, says Walter F. Straub, Office of Price Administration's food rationing director.

Straub told a regional OPA conference here yesterday that when the lands now occupied by Germany are freed the United States will be called upon to feed the people. He said need for food to supply our men in the Pacific might continue for some time after Germany's defeat.

Straub predicted that Victory gardening would have to be continued for several years.

Straub said the food outlook for 1944 was about the same as in 1943, with the exception of sugar, which may be scarce.

LARGE ARMY

that around 200,000 a month—roughly the rate of the last few months—would have to be taken between now and July 1. Even then, no tremendous slackening in the induction pace could be foreseen.

Affected by Losses
The Army said its planned strength (7,700,000) will be slightly exceeded this month in order to start the training of men who will be required "to meet anticipated losses." The calls then will begin dropping in May and during the rest of the year will be "determined by existing conditions." The Army estimated roughly that it will need 75,000 to 100,000 a month for the rest of 1944 to maintain present strength.

The present strength of the Navy including Marines and Coast guard was not announced, but 300,000 inductions between now and July 1 or 100,000 a month will bring it up to 3,500,000 on that date, at the same time providing the necessary replacements.

Then the Navy's net strength, not counting replacements, will be raised another 100,000 by Sept. 1, to the planned maximum of 3,700,000.

WILLKIE ACTS

ident Roosevelt on what promises to be one of the major campaign issues, the Democratic argument against electing an inexperienced man as commander-in-chief.

But the quick surge to Dewey appeared likely to scuttle any such movement, despite the three votes MacArthur picked up in Wisconsin.

Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio generally has been credited with strength in the south, largely on the assumption that his friend, Senator Taft (R-Ohio), could deliver some of the 1940 southern Taft following to him. Bricker told a press conference yesterday that he hoped a share of Willkie strength would migrate his way, but there were no outward indications of such a trend.

Thus Bricker seemed to be in no position to duplicate 1940's events, when Taft and Dewey came into the convention with the lion's share of the delegates and created the stalemate that permitted Willkie, a political unknown, to walk off with the nomination.

WHEELER DEFENDS FCC RADIO REVIEW

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI, April 7.—Chairman Wheeler (D-Mont) of the senate Interstate Commerce committee last night declared he would oppose the privilege of any radio station to put on "a commentator to use innuendos or to lie about somebody and to give that person an opportunity to be heard."

In a speech delivered over the BLUE network's "America's Town Meeting of the Air," he defended Federal Communications commission review of radio broadcasting as a protection against abuse of "freedom of speech."

"As long as I am in the senate, I am going to raise my voice against any radio station being permitted to put on one side of a question and deny the other side the right to be heard," he declared.

On the same program, Sen. Gurney (R-SD) also a member of the Interstate Commerce committee, took issue with his chairman, declaring: "A little regulation of this sort is a dangerous thing, because it only invites further regulation in the future, leading to complete control and the elimination of freedom of speech in radio."

CHICAGO—The Infant Welfare society, which operates 20 health and medical stations in Chicago, cared for 12,956 expectant mothers, infants and small children last year.

Receives Prison Term

LIMA, April 7.—Carl Muntz, 57, who was to have gone on trial April 11 for the Jan. 21 slaying of his father, Charles W. Muntz, 83, yesterday pleaded guilty to first degree manslaughter, and was sentenced to Ohio penitentiary for one to 20 years by Common Pleas Judge A. A. Slaybaugh. He had been charged with second degree murder.

The first color printing was developed by Jacob LeBlon, a German, in 1704.

Willkie Is Cheerful, But Non-Committal

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, April 7.—Cheerful but non-committal on his political future, Wendell Willkie came home today from a campaign tour on which he staked and lost his bid for the Republican presidential nomination.

As he stepped from his train at 8:15 a. m. (EWT) into the rush hour crowd of Grand Central station, Willkie declined to add anything to the statement he made in Omaha in which he said he was withdrawing his candidacy because "it is obvious I cannot be nominated."

To all questions asked by newsmen as to whether he would support the candidate of the Republican national convention and, specifically, whether he would support Gov. Thomas E. Dewey should he be the nominee, Willkie merely smiled.

"I made my statement in Omaha," he said. "It was completely comprehensive and I don't want to add to it."

LISBON WAR DADS APPOINT JOHNSON

LISBON, April 7.—L. H. Johnson was named temporary chairman when 25 persons met in the village hall last night to make plans for organizing a Lisbon chapter of the American War Dads.

Probate Judge W. H. Hammond presided, reviewing the objects of the association.

A number of war fathers signed membership pledges and paid dues.

This is the fourth branch of the organization to be formed in Columbiana county. Similar organizations have been set up in East Palestine, Columbiana, and East Liverpool.

Man Sees Again After Eye Grafting Operation

NEW ORLEANS, April 7.—Richard Bienvenu, practically blind all his life, now can see by means of a gift eye donated to him by a stranger, Mrs. E. E. Johnson of Marrero, La.

The attractive matron, hearing that the 33-year-old broommaker might be able to see through the transplanting of a live cornea to his left eye, donated her right eye in which she lost sight at the age of eight by being accidentally struck by a rock.

BRICKER PRESSES PRESIDENCY DRIVE

(By Associated Press)

INDIANAPOLIS, April 7.—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio last night told the Indianapolis Press club he would intensify his campaign for delegates to the Republican national convention, now that Wendell Willkie has withdrawn as a candidate for the presidential nomination.

Bricker also said he would redouble his efforts to inform the nation fully of his position on all the major questions.

"I have found the people of our country most anxious to hear and to discuss with me all the critical problems, both domestic and foreign, now facing us in this perilous time of war and those that will arise in the post-war world," Bricker said in a prepared address.

"The people of this country will demand, this year, a complete disclosure of the position of both political parties on these important questions and only the party that makes its position perfectly clear will be entitled to the confidence of the people."

Bricker said that not only the welfare of the nation but the continuance of free government were at stake in the coming election.

YANKS ALL SET FOR INVASION

American Doughboy Is Ready and Confident, But a Little Scared

By JAMES E. KING

AP Features

LONDON—The American doughboy waiting for the kickoff in the invasion of Europe is like a football player in a dressing room before the big game—cool, a little tense, but confident.

Like the football player, he doesn't like to talk much about the business at hand. Wives, sweethearts, the home town—sure—but what it's going to be like storming ashore.

They expect to be scared at first, especially those who haven't been shot at before, but they'll tell you "We've got a job to do and we'll do it when the time comes."

Laughs Are Grim

They joke a little, like Pvt. Wayne Mantle, Harrisville, N. Y., who allowed he was "ready to invade New York right now."

But there's no joke in training.

They are cocky, but they have no illusions about the grim game of war. They know a lot of them aren't coming back. But they know that it's the only way to win the war and get back home.

Sgt. Sammie Slusher, Willard, Ohio, tells his men how that first baptism of fire is going to feel.

"Frankly," he says, "you will be scared stiff. Your frame will tremble and your knees will knock. The rest of your hands will be hold and clammy."

Your lips and throat will be dry, your stomach upset, and you'll wish you were a couple of thousand miles away somewhere in Africa. It will be like waiting for the kickoff.

Chances are you'll be surprised how cool you are once you get in there. You'll find you have a lot more know-how than you thought you did."

Work And Play Hard

These American soldiers don't hate anybody in particular, but they train hard, and on leave they play just like anyone else away from home would do.

Some are a little more anxious for the invasion to start than others, maybe because they have a touch of homesickness.

"In a way, I'm a little tired of waiting," said Sgt. Clarence Kagan, 24 Chicago, and Sgt. Paul Kikula, former Stump Creek, Pa., coal miner, finished the sentence for him. "The sooner we get started, the sooner we get home," he said.

Pvt. Kenneth O. Marshall, Newport, La., said "I think it will be rough" and Pvt. Clarence Huggan, Blacksburg, Va., added: "We'll do it."

Family Reunion

"You never can tell what you'll meet on an invasion," grinned Corporal Harry Hammer, Brooklyn. "When we invaded Northern Ireland I met my brother Ben, whom I hadn't seen for a long time, and my brother Murray (former New York policeman)."

Between wishing they were going home and knowing the only way to get there is by way of Berlin, they can laugh at such things as happened to Pvt. George Morgan, a mural painter from Staten Island, N. Y.

While training at Fort Bragg, N. C. Morgan took private flying lessons at a nearby field. He was shipped off, leaving a small bill unpaid at the field.

Morgan went for weeks without a letter. Then one came. He tore it open. It was from the air field. It began: "You apparently do not realize the seriousness of this situation."

A Wisconsin farmer finds that some cows can't become adapted to milking. To overcome this, he shifts the "problem" cows to the end of the milk line so that the fast-milking routine will not be interrupted.

Months Of Preparation Backs Up Invasion Of Enemy Lands

By NED NORDNESS

AP Features Writer

Half asleep, you grope out the front door for the newspaper. Suddenly you're not sleepy.

"Hey," you shout, "we've invaded Europe!"

Just like that—invasion. One day everything is quiet; the next, thousands of men, planes and ships have pussy-footed into Europe out of nowhere.

Military and Naval authorities wish feverently it were as easy as that. It isn't.

Plotting Takes Months

An invasion may be the start of a campaign lasting months. The invasion itself is the result of months of intensive and meticulous preparation by all branches of the Army and Navy.

High ranking staff officers hold long sessions behind closed doors. They pour over Commando raid data... probe for soft spots on invasion shores... scrutinize weather maps, terrain maps, flight photographs of the area and its fortifications.

Logistics (the science of supply) are of tremendous importance. An army is never better than its supply system.

And the fighting and service forces—how many troops are to be employed? What will be the proportion of ground troops to air troops, and how many of the ground forces will be armored units, infantry, artillery? What number of service troops will be required to maintain the combat troops?

Men, Munitions, Machines

Before an invasion there must be figured the amount of equipment, supplies and transportation necessary to support the personnel.

In the North African invasion 700,000 different items of supplies and equipment were required. Each soldier got 390 different items of clothing and individual equipment.

Come "D" day, naval ships will throw a sheet of hurtling steel and fire to tear asunder and confuse the coast defenders. Then infantrymen will clamber into landing barges and the invasion will be under way.

After the first landing, the second and third waves will carry more infantrymen, medical and signal corps units who must immediately establish radio contact between lighters, ships off shore and reconnaissance and bomber planes above.

The instant the beachhead has been gained, armored forces—tanks, artillery, antiaircraft—must tear onto the beach to reinforce the foot soldiers. All have their part to perform and the time to begin it. One must not fail the other.

Total applications from members of the armed forces for National Service Life Insurance have passed the $100,000,000 mark.

After initial requirements comes the tremendous problem of troop maintenance in the field. For example, for every 100 men 17 pairs of shoes must be shipped each month.

Ammunition requirements of a task force also are tremendous. An infantry division in a normal day expends 300 tons of ammunition; 100 37 mm. antiaircraft guns require 127.5 tons of ammunition a day; gasoline is used at the average of 10 gallons a day per vehicle.

African Invasion Was Practice

Shipping... the North African invasion required seven tons of shipping per man for initial equipment and one and one-half ship tons a man a month was necessary to maintain the supply.

Although the North African venture was one of the largest, if not the largest invasion in world history, the opening of the second front will be of such greater magnitude that African logistics cannot be applied to the BIG show.

Shortly before invasion day will come a "softening up." Bombers will pound rail communications behind the coast with double fury to disrupt supplies of men and material. A few days later, fighter-bombers will take to the air and set upon the Luftwaffe and its airfields to obliterate sky opposition.

Shortly before invasion day will come a "softening up." Bombers will pound rail communications behind the coast with double fury to disrupt supplies of men and material. A few days later, fighter-bombers will take to the air and set upon the Luftwaffe and its airfields to obliterate sky opposition.

Shipping... the North African invasion required seven tons of shipping per man for initial equipment and one and one-half ship tons a man a month was necessary to maintain the supply.

Although the North African venture was one of the largest, if not the largest invasion in world history, the opening of the second front will be of such greater magnitude that African logistics cannot be applied to the BIG show.

The War Today

maining oil and gas have been made synthetically from coal. The supplies which Hitler stole from occupied countries have been exhausted. The Nazis have made no secret of their crying need for oil. That was one of the chief objectives of Hitler's attempt to reach the Caucasian petroleum fields. It explains in part why he's trying to hang onto Rumania.

There's small doubt that one reason the Germans haven't been using their air fleet more is shortage of gas. Now when they lose Rumanian oil, which they are bound to do either through bombing or by capture, it will be a truly crippling blow. And it will be a mighty lift for the Allies in the forthcoming invasion which will depend so heavily on air power.

It's a curious and vastly important coincidence that a similar situation is developing in the Orient through Japan's loss of her short-haul oil supply when the Russians forced her to give up the Sakhalin oil leases.

is slightly below the levels of a year ago.

The quartet of government officials declared that "stabilization has brought tangible—indeed bankable—benefits to all groups." They declared stabilization had paid off on every hand in lasting rather than illusory benefits, and had been of benefit particularly to some 20,000,000 persons whose incomes cannot be boosted to keep pace with rising prices.

"The need for continued restraint and continued co-operation with every phase of the stabilization program is evident," the report concluded.

"Obviously, too, we should cling to the policies and machinery which have served us so effectively so far."

Such letters bring tears to the eyes of those in the Casualty branch, and even Col. Herbert, an Army man of the old school, sometimes speaks gruffly and must clear
his throat.

"Wonderful letters; real American people," he says. "But we get a few that aren't so nice. Some criticize us for not giving in more detail the conditions under which their boy died. We can't help that.
We do what we can."

"Yes, and a few cold-hearted individuals write us to ask, 'How soon do we get the insurance?'"
"Thank God, there are few of them."

'American' Speech Seen
As Post-War Influence

AUSTIN, Tex.—Dr. Walter P.
Webb, University of Texas history professor and author, who spent last year as a guest professor at Oxford, predicts that the more vivid "American speech is destined to have most influence on postwar language of the world."

"Of 270,000,000 people who speak English, 150,000 live on the American continent," Dr. Webb said.
"These people speak a language that is growing and living and not held down by the sense of propriety which the Englishman has in regard to his language."

"Men in the American armed forces are moving into all parts of the world and their form of speech is taking the fancy of natives of lands that use other languages. This familiarity will lead to a prevalence of 'American' speech before long."

We Regret To Inform You

Casualty Branch Office of U. S. Army Has One of Hardest Jobs

By NED NORDNESS

WASHINGTON — The letter was from an elderly farmer.

"Today," it read, "I received the Purple Heart decoration awarded to my son, who was killed in action.
Myself and family are grateful for this distinction to my dear boy."

But then—and you could picture him there at the kitchen table in his farm home, a stubby pencil grasped in his big, labor-crooked fingers—he wrote, simply, painfully of the end of living for him.

Loses Only Son
"It is very hard for an old man to lose his only son. I am a farmer and have been looking forward for my dear boy to carry on in his rightful place here. Now my farm is for sale and my career is ended."

"I am a broken-hearted father."

Hundreds of letters like this are received by the U. S. Army Casualty branch. From the Casualty office go those telegrams which state tersely: "We regret to inform you . . ." And from this same office are sent follow-up letters that inform those at home as gently as possible the conditions under which a soldier met his death. That the office does a wonderful job is attested to by the number of grateful replies.

"We try to personalize as much as possible the letters which convey such tragic news," says Col. George F. Herbert, head of the Casualty branch. "We do not write 'form' letters here. It is difficult at best to accept news of the death of a dear one. The information is relayed humanely and gently."

Bravely Written
Coupled with the letters from relatives at home are those bravely written notes which assert that if "he had to go, we are glad he gave his life for the country."

A Bradock, Pa., wife of a soldier killed in action penned:
"When your beautiful letter reached me words cannot describe how I felt. Yes, I was crushed by the death of my dear husband.
But when I learned he won the Purple Heart I took his picture in my hands and said 'You thought that stripes would make me love you more, but I always told you I knew you were doing your best—and that is what counted.'"

A pastor from Rockford, Ill.,
wrote:
"We earnestly thank you for your kind letters in connection with the death of our son. We are deeply touched by the way you personalize your messages in these tragic days when you must be under terrific pressure."

Similar sentiments were expressed by a wife in Oklahoma city:

Real Americans
"By now the shock of news of my husband's death has worn away to where I can think somewhat more clearly. You have been extremely kind and tactful in handling a very ticklish situation.
I had no idea anything as cold and technical as the government could take time to be personal and sympathetic."

Such letters bring tears to the eyes of those in the Casualty branch, and even Col. Herbert, an Army man of the old school, sometimes speaks gruffly and must clear
his throat.

"Wonderful letters; real American people," he says. "But we get a few that aren't so nice. Some criticize us for not giving in more

soon do we get the insurance?'"
"Thank God, there are few of
them."

Vince DiMaggio Not Handicapped by Lack of Spring Training

GETS TWO HITS ON HIS FIRST DAY AT PITTSBURGH CAMP

Comes To Terms As Bucs Go On Field To Lose To Indians, 6-3

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, April 7.—Naturally it may have been just one of those things, such as a golfer making a hole-in-one his first time on a course, but critics are liable to see some significance in the fact Vince DiMaggio got two hits and behaved himself flawlessly in the field yesterday, the first day he has been with the Pittsburgh Pirates this spring.

The critics may see this as an indictment of northern training, as with no more preparation than a haircut and shave, DiMaggio was able to do quite as well as his teammates, who have been enjoying the rigors of northern training for a month, more or less.

DiMaggio came to terms just a few minutes before the Bucs went on the field to drop a 6 to 3 decision to the Cleveland Indians. Signing of the veteran outfielder completes the Buc squad.

New of other major league clubs:
BROOKLYN DODGERS—It's infielder Dixie Walker now. Manager Leo Durocher has decided to play the veteran outfielder at third base, while Durocher himself will handle the second basing job.

ST. LOUIS CARDINALS—Billy Southworth moves his Cardinals from their spring training camp to St. Louis today. The club will have a day of rest before Saturday's first city series game with the Browns.

ST. LOUIS BROWNS—The Browns get their final spring training workout today before leaving tomorrow for St. Louis.

DETROIT TIGERS—Manager Steve O'Neill has stuck to his regular lineup for the game today with Camp Breckenridge, except that Paul Richards will make his first appearance behind the plate.

NEW YORK YANKEES—The World Champions, in the throes of a losing streak, face more trouble today when they entertain Connie Mack's undefeated Philadelphia Athletics.

Major Leagues To Help High School Baseball

COLUMBUS, April 7.—A group of high school athletic commissioners is drafting recommendations by which organized baseball will help promote the sport in high schools. George M. Trautman, president of the American association, reported yesterday.

Trautman is a member of a three-man committee planning moves to revive the sport in high schools. The other two committee members are Jack Zeller of the Detroit Tigers and Warren Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

Gutteridge, 'Gas House' Boy, Peps Up St. Louis Browns

By CHIP ROYAL
AP Features Sports Editor
CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo.—If you believe the ball players on opposing teams, Don Gutteridge is the greatest workman in the game today and the player most likely to become a top manager.

The 5 foot 9 Kansan is the life of the St. Louis Browns.
"I wish I had eight more like him," says Manager Luke Sewell. "Then I wouldn't have to worry about the team the rest of the year. Don has got more pep than a dozen players put together."

"You hear a lot about playing baseball. You don't play the game. You work at it. Gutteridge is a good example of what I mean. The fellow works at baseball every minute. That's why he's going places. I wouldn't be surprised if he made a great manager some day."

Don is one of the first fellows up in the morning. When the boys reach the field, his deep-voiced "yows" are a signal that practice is on.

A pep game starts, and Gutteridge is the first one in it. And the batter had better keep his eyes open, for "Blackie" wastes no time in returning that ball. He's all business out there, every minute.

75 Harness Racing Meets For Ohioans

COLUMBUS, April 7.—A pot of gold that may be in the neighborhood of a half million dollars will be dangled before harness racers in Ohio this year.

Mrs. Don A. Detrick of Bellefontaine, executive secretary of the Ohio Fair Managers' association, said today there would be 75 race meetings in this state this year as compared with 60 in 1943.

Seventy-three of the harness race meetings this year will be in connection with fairs while grand circuit meetings will be held at North Randall and Delaware.

The North Randall meeting is to be held June 25 to July 15. Delaware originally was granted the dates of June 15 to July 5 but it was renounced a request will be made to change that to June 8 to 24 in order not to conflict with the meet at North Randall.

BUFFALO BISONS WIN SECOND TILT

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 7.—The Buffalo Bisons, who strengthened their hold on the American hockey league Calder cup last night by overwhelming the Cleveland Barons 12-2 before 10,156 fans, travel to Cleveland today to meet the Barons tomorrow night in the third game of the play-off series.

The Bisons, last year's league champions, hope to score their third straight win, to return for the final game of the four of seven series on their home ice Sunday night.

The Buffalo team last night broke the league play-off scoring record and the memorial auditorium record by virtue of their third period scoring spree.

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, April 7.—Second overseas sports roundup:

THE BEACHHEAD IN ITALY

Capt. Roy M. Terry, former Syracuse soccer captain, now an army chaplain at the beachhead, writes: "We don't get too much chance to play ball. For a while we played a little basketball in a bombed building in which we managed to make a court. I had quite a team and we could take anything in Italy. In fact, we challenged any and all. But my center, who was the star of the club, and a darn good forward was shot down and my great team went by the boards. I have met a couple of tickets for a good doubleheader in Madison Square garden about 1946."

INDIA

Li. Hal Surface, high ranking American player, and Gib Sandefur, former Hardin-Simmons U. graduate manager who used to be "in hog heaven" when he could get a few court starts to visit the campus, divided the honors at a recent tennis show for the Chinese relief fund at New Delhi.

Sandefur, who survived a ship sinking on the way to his Red Cross job, staged the event in real Texas style.

Surface was the standout performer, whipping Franjo Kukulevic, former Yugoslav Davis cup player, 6-1, 6-2, and then teaming with Max Elmer of Switzerland to win a double match.

A singles set from W. C. Choy, Chinese champion, 9-7. Also from New Delhi, Lt. Frank S. Wright, former Florida U. drummer, sends the news that Gama, "undefeated wrestling champion of the world," is 70 years old and thinks he's fit enough to meet all comers for at least another 10 years.

THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC

Marine Pfc. Jimmy Austin, half-back on the 1942 Missouri football team, probably set a record of some sort by participating in 33 landings in the Marshalls in 23 days. "Before I made my first landing," said Jimmy, "I had the same feeling I had before the 1942 Kansas game." "Probably he had much the same feeling afterward. Austin tossed two touchdown passes to help rout Kansas in 1942 and he accounted for at least two Japs in the Marshalls."

ENGLAND

Contribution of Don Schiffer, former baseball statistician: "The little island looks like Ebbets field in the lush days of '40 and '41. There's no room to take a walk, even in the remote sections. Our baseball team is scheduled for its first workout Sunday. Many attractive games already have been arranged, including one with a naval district outfit which boasts such pros as Barney McCosky, John Lucadello, Larry French, et al. We have an ex-Columbus Red Bird thrower and many Class C and D ball players, so again a good season is sure, unless they shoot Great Lakes at us."

IRAN

Gordon Rowe, student manager of the Oregon state grid team that beat Duke in the transplanted Rose Bowl game of 1942, sends word home from Iran, where he is with an engineer outfit: "A train ride here recalls the ride we had from

SPRING FOOTBALL ARGUMENT IS ON

Track Official Against Ban Lifting Urged by Mahoning Officials

By HAROLD HARRISON
COLUMBUS, April 7.—Edgar C. Barker of Duncan Falls, secretary of the Ohio Association of Track Coaches, today took issue with officials who are seeking to restore spring football practice in high schools.

Earlier this week the Mahoning Valley Coaches association adopted a resolution urging lifting of the ban on spring grid practice.

Barker said the association had been accused of bringing about the ban by virtue of its voting strength. He asserted, however, that the only track coaches who voted on the proposition were those who also coached football.

"We have no quarrel with those who desire spring football," Barker said. "But we do feel that some plan should be devised whereby football, distinctly an autumn sport, will not interfere with the schedule of regular spring sports."

Vote Is Sought

He added that if spring football is resumed the track coaches, through the OATC, would ask for a vote among schools with track teams on some plan of avoiding a conflict.

Asserting that arguments in favor of spring football have been "well aired," Barker continued: "Permit me to list but three of the points in favor of our side: "1. Spring football tends to wear

Washington, D. C., to Urham, N. C. We have the longest and toughest division on the Iranian state railways—135 tunnels, 63 miles of track underground."

Indians Are Even In League Clashes

LAFAYETTE, Ind., April 7.—The Cleveland Indians were all even with major league competition for the exhibition season today after their 6 to 3 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates at Muncie, Ind.

Cincinnati's Reds bested the Tribe last Sunday but the Redskins squared matters yesterday by slugging two Pirate hurlers for 12 blows, including a home run by Ken Keltner, a triple by Jimmy Grant and doubles by Mickey Rocco and Roy Cullenbine.

Rocco collected three hits and was robbed of a fourth when Second Baseman Lee Handley knocked down a hard smash.

While the Indians were active at the plate, Mike Nymick, Ed Klieman and Hal Kline limited the Bucs to eight hits. The only extra base blow was a double by Frank Gustine. Max Butcher and Nick Strincevich were the Pirate hurlers.

Manager Lou Boudreau was out of the lineup with a cold.

There are about 200 species of ducks.

THE RED CARNATION by BURTON STEVENSON

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN
 "The police say you couldn't tell them anything," said Tony to Dr. Metcalf.
 "That's right."
 "Were you at home Monday evening?"
 "Yes, all evening."
 "You heard no pistol shot?"
 "No, I didn't hear anything. Of course I was in bed long before two o'clock, and I don't remember that I was disturbed at all. You see my bedroom is on the floor above. This is a duplex. I use this floor for my offices and the other for my living rooms."

 "These windows overlook McKibben's terrace?"
 "Yes."
 "Would you mind if I examined them?"

"Certainly not," said Metcalf and rose and led the way to them. "What do you expect to find?"
 "Whoever killed McKibben," Tony explained, "got into his place in some way before he returned and lay in wait for him. When I was down there on the terrace yesterday and looked up at these windows it seemed to me that it would be very easy to drop down to the terrace from one of them and with practically no risk of being seen. If that was done, I may be able to find some trace of it on the sill."
 "Yes, it would be easy enough to get down from here," Metcalf agreed, with a glance out the window. "But how would anyone get into my office?"
 "I don't know. Let me take a look."

He raised the lower sash and the screen outside it and looked out. There was McKibben's terrace twelve or fourteen feet below.
 "You see how easy it would be to swing down with a ladder, or even with a rope," he declared.
 "Yes, yes," said Metcalf impatiently. "There's no question about that. But I don't see the point. It would be just as easy to get into McKibben's place through the door as into my office, so why go to all the extra trouble?" And then he looked at Tony sharply. "Unless you mean that you think I did it."

"I think you were in position to do it if you wanted to," said Tony. "You were at home all evening, and you had access to the place. But I haven't found any adequate motive as yet."
 "That's comforting!" laughed the psychiatrist, but the laughter sounded the least bit forced.
 "It's possible, of course, that your office was unlocked," Metcalf objected. "It has a snap lock which catches automatically when the door is closed."

"It would be easy enough for anyone to come in during the afternoon and throw the catch without your secretary noticing it."
 "Yes, I suppose it would," the psychiatrist agreed, "but it has always been her responsibility to see that the outer door is locked when she leaves, and I have found her very careful. Suppose we ask her about it," and he touched a button. In a moment there was a tap at the door and the secretary entered.
 "Miss Scott," Metcalf went on, "Mr. Bileglov has been asking whether it would be possible for you to leave the outer door unlocked inadvertently when you leave in the evening."

"No, sir, it would not," answered the girl, confidently.
 "Even if someone had thrown off the catch?"
 "I would notice it. The catch makes quite a sharp click when the door is closed. Besides, I always try to make sure it is locked."
 "Do you happen to remember doing that last Monday evening?" Tony asked.
 The girl thought for a moment.
 "Yes, I do," she said. "I forgot my compact Monday evening and had to come back for it. I had to use my key to get in, and I remember trying the door to make sure it was locked when I went out the second time."

"Thank you, Miss Scott," said the doctor, and dismissed her with a nod. "So you see," he went on, turning to Tony, "the evidence is all against me."
 Tony had been examining the window sill and wall outside. Now he closed the screen and the window.

"You didn't go out here, at any rate," he said. "A rope would have been sure to leave some trace. Let's look at the other one." But the other sill also was quite unmarked.
 "I'd point out to you that the apartment next to mine also looks down on the terrace," Metcalf remarked.
 "I know it. I'm going to take a look at it," and Tony returned thoughtfully to his seat.

Metcalf sat down again at the other side of the desk and for a moment the two men looked at each other.
 "I've been told that the apartment next door is occupied by a fellow named Dudley Graham," Tony said at last. "But he has been in California for a month, so that rules him out. You haven't seen anybody else in there?"
 "Not a soul."

"Herschel Schneider tells me that Mrs. Graham is a patient of yours," Metcalf flushed a little.
 "She was," he said curtly. "She is all right now."
 "So Schneider said."

"There was nothing much the matter with her. Have you been discussing me with Schneider?"
 There was an edge of irritation in Metcalf's voice, and his eyes were brighter than ever.
 "I was talking with him last night and he happened to mention you," Tony explained, and then decided that the time had come to bring up his heavy artillery. "Have you a dictograph concealed in your desk, doctor?" he asked.

Metcalf stared at him, his face redder than ever.
 "Yes, I have a dictograph," he snapped, "but it isn't concealed. The receiver is set in that panel right in front of you."
 "Oh, yes," said Tony, and leaned forward and looked at it. "Not concealed, certainly—but I wouldn't call it very noticeable."
 "What business is it of yours, anyway?" the psychiatrist demanded.

"None," answered Tony, blandly, "and if you prefer not to talk about it, I'll be going."
 He started to rise, but Metcalf motioned him back to his seat.
 "Don't get this wrong," he said. "There is nothing out of the way about the use of a dictograph. Many psychiatrists use one from time to time when they wish to make a special study of something a patient has told them. You understand that very often a patient, in delving into the past, will say something whose meaning is not apparent even to himself. It is for the psychiatrist to discover the meaning, and with a dictograph record he can do it over and over until its complete meaning emerges. It is the only way. A stenographic record would not do it because it would not give the tones of the voice, which are often very important. Besides, it would necessitate another listener."

"I see," nodded Tony. "Does the patient know a record is being made?"
 "Certainly not. It would act as an inhibition, and the whole point is to break down inhibitions and pressures, and by means of perfect rapport, to bring about an abstraction, or emotional discharge, which releases the patient from whatever neurosis or maladjustment he has been suffering with. You understand it is only very occasionally I use the dictograph, and then only for such phrases as require special study."

"I wish you would explain to me how it works," said Tony.
 "There are two receivers, one here and one in my treatment room. The one here is controlled by a button in the floor under my desk. As long as I hold the button down with my foot, the record is made. In the treatment room, the button is in the floor at the head of the couch."
 "I see," nodded Tony. "That dictograph mechanism is ingenious. It might be a good idea for a columnist. What happens to these records when you are through with them?"

"They are destroyed."
 "That is interesting, too," said Tony. "Think what a basis they might be for blackmail."
 Metcalf started from his chair.
 "Are you suggesting—" he began in a strangled voice, but Tony waved him back.
 "Sit down, doctor," he said. "I am not suggesting anything. But I have reason to believe that Jack McKibben was using a dictograph record in that way. Where he got it I don't know."

"He didn't get it here," Metcalf broke in. "I keep my records in a steel cabinet which is always locked, and to which nobody has a key but myself. And as soon as a patient is cured or discontinues treatment, I put the record in a reconditioning machine and shave it smooth."

Resigns Salvage Job

COLUMBUS, April 7.—State Defense Director Ralph H. Stone announced today his resignation as Ohio executive secretary of the War Production Board's general salvage branch, and the elevation of James G. Lewis of Cleveland to the post.

The battleship Missouri, mightiest ship afloat, required one million rivets.

Skilled Island Navigators Help Marines Pass Gilberts Reefs In Tarawa Assault

By JOHN R. HENRY
 International News Correspondent
 WITH THE U. S. MARINES, Tarawa. (Delayed)—Landing of the Marines on Tarawa afforded a homecoming for an Australian and a New Zealander. They accompanied the American invasion force and helped the leathernecks get ashore on the reef-fringed atoll.

Their knowledge of the Gilbert islands based on years of experience, Capt. Karl Tschau, of Sydney, Australia, and Lt. James Fores, of the Royal New Zealand naval reserve, assisted in planning at attack.

When American warships stood into Tarawa and laid down the barrage that preceded the landing, Capt. Tschau and Lt. Fores saw the sandy island for the first time since the outbreak of war.

In Islands 30 Years
 Captain Tschau, 65, a weather-beaten master of a British merchantman, sailed through waters of the Gilberts for 30 years. He was skipper of an inter-island vessel under the burgee of Burns-Philp Co., and is familiar with the conditions and native customs in all of the 16 atolls that comprise the Gilbert group.

Lieutenant Fores, a seasoned seaman of 35, is the former captain of the British government patrol boat in the Gilberts. In more than five years of patrol boat duty in the islands, Fores learned the navigational dangers lurking in the reefs off shore.

With this knowledge in their possession, Fores and Tschau served as advisers to American naval commanders in mapping the assault at Tarawa.

Helped Marines Ashore
 As though they had joined the American armed forces, the two Allies boarded a battleship and then transferred to smaller vessels and came here with the Marines. Lieutenant Fores helped in directing the landing boats and mine sweeping off shore, and Capt. Tschau stood by to assist in dealing with the natives.

The Tarawa atoll that confronted them today, however, was vastly different from the peaceful little isle they left shortly before the outbreak of hostility. Its stately coconut trees had been plowed away to make space for the large Isaac Handley, who had refused to leave Tarawa even in the face of Japanese occupation. Handley, an 80-year-old Englishman, made the island his home since the day he retired from the Burns-Philp service.

Crop Loan Applications Will Be Taken April 13

County Agent Floyd Lower announces that G. L. Hoffman, field supervisor of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan office, will be at the Extension Service office in the Lisbon courthouse from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. Thursday, April 13, for the purpose of accepting applications from farmers for crop production loans.

Any farmer in need of financial assistance in the production of his crops or for the purchase of feed for livestock or poultry, is urged to contact Hoffman at that time.

Imported Gin, Cordials Now On Unrationed List

COLUMBUS, April 7.—Imported gin and cordials were added to Ohio's list of unrationed spirits beginning with the next six-week ration period, April 10 to May 20 inclusive, State Liquor Director Don A. Fisher announced today. Brandy and rum already are off the ration list, and the addition of cordials and imported gin leaves only whiskey and domestic gin rationed.

ADRIAN, Mich.—Arthur Whitney, a fireman, and John Schmidt, a food market operator, are little "fed up" with eggs. They competed in a recent raw egg eating contest and each swallowed 54 when the supply was exhausted.

Handley, according to Capt. Tschau, was a lifelong devotee of "all in 'all (gin and rum), and considered himself rugged enough to endure the reign of Nips.
 Capt. Tschau, in returning to the Gilberts, expressed fear that the natives, whom he described as gentle, simple and moral, had experienced a siege of terror under Japanese rule. As crown colony of Great Britain, the Gilbert island people were treated decently, according to Tschau, who added, "but they must have suffered in recent years if the blasted Nips carried on in their usual manner."
 Jap Rule Harsh
 Tschau recounted how he had sailed into the Marshall islands after they had been mandated to Japan in 1920 by the League of Nations.
 The Japs immediately determined, he said, the exact maximum population that the islands could support, and then brought in Japanese families. He explained also how the Nipponese government installed a severe penal code, punishing minor offenses to the limit. In addition, the Japs freely violated the native women of the Marshalls, he said.
 "I don't doubt that the same situation prevailed here in the Gilberts," Capt. Tschau asserted, adding, "but thank God we're now able to drive the Japs out of these islands."
